

chant knelt together, equal before God. During the long night of the dark ages, the lamp of knowledge was kept burning in the monasteries. Tolerance knows that there are two sides to every question and that a picture that shows only shadows is essentially false."—Frank Bernero, 430 W. 14th st.

LOTS OF BOOZE.—In view of the present prohibition agitation it may interest Chicagoans to read the contents of a letter which I received this morning from Hoopeston, Ill., dry territory.

"This is a prohibition county and it may interest you to know that two barrels of alcohol were consumed here Sunday, Sept. 19, and over 30 fights resulted and several arrests were made.

"Those arrested were fined and released Tuesday and some of them within a few hours re-arrested.

"People have 'corn fever' and a dozen of them say only hot whisky will break it, and yet even a doctor's order can't obtain any at a drug store."—Vincent Hoier, 527 N. Sawyer Av.

GREATEST NATION. — The world's greatest nation will be the one that shall be able to maintain peace within itself and remain neutral in the face of Europe's conflict—the greatest crisis in human history. Our country is pictured as that greatest. It is prophesy, however, that our greatest alarm lies in the cosmopolitan character of our people, made up of emigration from all the warring nations.

America through the last year has acquitted herself nobly. But now millions are proposed to be "loaned" to Europe's war-torn countries neither side is to be denied money. This is the most serious step our government can take, to have financial interests on both or either side. It may overthrow our neutrality. For money and heart throb together. Besides, there is a probability that the United States may need the change sometime herself. However, heavy loans passing to Europe will either involve us unfavorably or else place us in a position to command peace in Europe.—Elmer E. Rogers.

EVA TANGUAY.—There is a young lady who is jolly, individualistic and the best tonic for every man or woman to hear. She probably has more friends than any actress on the stage. The secret of her success should be the secret of every downcast woman's uprising. If every girl would just copy Eva Tanguay the devil and all his angels could not push them down to tears, misery, despair and ruin.

Eva says: "Ha! The boys all talk about me, but I don't care; I should worry." The result is that when men or woman, for that matter, talk about her she don't care how much they gossip or talk and it acts as a free advertisement, making her more friends than she had before.

What a breezy relief she is to all these people who are suing for $50,000 damages; to all these tearful women who are weeping because some one is talking about them. Come out of it! Smile if it hurts. "The man worth while is the man with a smile when everything goes dead wrong." It is just as true of women. It is not a damage to be talked about if we just smile until people come flocking irresistibly to our side from all directions.

Come, downcast women, be a tonic to yourself and everybody else. Copy little Eva Tanguay. You should worry.—Allen Steven, 3325 N. Ridgway.

MAYBE SHE DID

A janitor of a country school found written on the blackboard:

"Find the least common multiple."

Beneath it he wrote:

"Teacher: I hev been lookin' for that darned thing ever since school opened. It ain't nowheres about. You must have left it back home."
